Fire Kills 3 In Dorm Like Jumbo

Three students at the University of Oklahoma were burned to death in the hours before dawn last Saturday when a fire flashed through a Hudson-type dormitory similar to Jumbo hall.

Twenty-one other students were injured and two of them were reported in critical condition. An additional 50 of the 347 men living in the dorm received first aid.

The entire building was enveloped in flame only ten minutes after the fire was first detected. The origin of the blaze is unknown. The property loss was over $500,000 not including the personal loss suffered by each student.

William L. Ganson Jr., head resident at Jumbo, said that he hoped that the serious implications of the Oklahoma fire would be recognized by the students living in Jumbo.

"We warn the residents of Jumbo of the serious fire danger and tell them how fast Jumbo could burn, but few of them realize that the building can burn in ten minutes," Ganson said.

Jumbo is equipped with an elaborate fire alarm system. A continuous wire with a low melting point runs through each room and closet. When this wire is broken, the fire alarm system is set off.

The numerous fire escapes offer safety in case of a blaze in Jumbo but Ganson cautioned that the only sure way to avoid the loss of life is to exercise common fire prevention practices.

Guild Will Make Winter Plans, Elect Officers

Radio Guild will elect new officers for winter quarter tonight at 7 o'clock in Main hall auditorium.

The meeting, which will be the last before Christmas vacation, will also serve as a planning session for next quarter's guild activity, according to Ansel Resler, adviser of the group. "All old and new members should be on hand to make their wishes known," Resler said.

During fall quarter the guild produced a series of 15-minute dramatic programs over local radio station KGVO. Projected for its future activities are a series of discussion programs and, possibly, a campus variety show.

Eleanor Linse '49 Receives $1,800 Columbia Fellowship

Eleanor Linse, Ronan, a 1949 graduate with honors in Social Administration at the University, has been awarded the Margaret Lea fellowship of $1,800.

Miss Linse was one of the 65 college graduates who were awarded fellowships in New York valued at $42,850. The fellowships are for study at Columbia university's school of social work.

The competition for the fellowships was open to recent college graduates who live in the northwestern, southern, and western areas of the United States and who indicated unusual promise in the field of social work.

In her senior year on this campus Miss Linse was chairman of the American Red Cross college unit. She also acted as delegate from this university at a Red Cross

Business Firms Interview Seniors Rest of Quarter

Representatives of five business firms are scheduled to be at the placement service during the remainder of the quarter, Warren Mead, placement service director, said yesterday.

Companies sending representatives to interview seniors are General Motors Acceptance corporation, Great Falls; Montgomery Ward, Boise, Ida.; the Security Trust and Savings bank and the Carpenter Paper company of Billings; and the New York Life Insurance company.

Thirty-five seniors out of approximately 100 that will be graduating this quarter have registered with the placement service. Most of these registrants have had two or more interviews with business representatives, Mead said, and several of them have accepted jobs with the firms that have been represented at the placement service.

Christmas SOS Tonight—7:30

The annual Christmas SOS is scheduled for Wednesday evening at 7:30 on the Main hall steps, Gene Kallgren, Butte, Traditions board chairman, said yesterday.

Special features of the event are a traditional duet from the tower and singing selected Christmas carols. Ben Frost will be song leader while Don Stagg, Butte, will be accompanist.

Kallgren said it is hoped that the university Christmas tree will be completed for the SOS. This particular event has always been noted as one of the year's favorites for the student body, Kallgren added.

Sororities Sing Carols Tonight

Members of MSU's seven sororities will go Christmas caroling tonight at all the men's living groups. The serenading will start at 8:45.

The sororities, their carols and songleaders are: Alpha Chi Omega, "Oh, Holy Night," Helen Hales; Alpha Phi, "Jesu Bambino," Pat Kind; Tri Delta, "White Christmas," Frances Hares; Delta Gamma, "Lo, How a Rose," Maxine Anderson; Kappa Alpha Theta, "Silent Night," Caryl Helmer; Kappa Kappa Gamma, "Beautiful Savior," Eleanor Anderson; and Sigma Kappa, "Winter Wonderland," Margie Fryberger.

meeting given by the western area office to consider problems of college unit administration.

Upon graduation Miss Linse applied for a stipend at the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration through the Illinois department of public welfare and was accepted, one of 35.

At the time she was notified that she had been granted the fellowship, Miss Linse was working as a child welfare case aide before beginning work at the University of Chicago. She applied for a release from the Illinois stipend award to take the fellowship.

Miss Linse was able to gain the recognition of the two most noted schools of social work within a period of a few months after her graduation.

Student Accidents Cause No Alarm or Bias: Phelan

BY BILL SMURR

Police Chief J. A. Phelan said yesterday that he does not intend to run an extra patrol car in the university area during December. He added that he sees no reason to get excited about accidents involving college personnel.

The Chief said that one car had been added to the patrol force this month, but explained that it would not cover this area exclusively. He said that his men had been patrolling the city with two cars, but now that all his officers have returned from vacation he can return to the use of three.

"We aren't cracking down on the university area," he said. "So far as I can see, most college people are pretty good drivers."

He said the sudden increase of accidents involving college persons (greater in November than any month this year) was not indicative of new recklessness in this part of town.

"Part of the trouble is due to changing weather conditions," he said. "This is a headache to us every year, and I suppose college drivers face the same hazards as everyone else. Besides the usual problem of frosty windshields and foggy roads, we have a special trouble in Missoula. Our asphalt roads accumulate a thin coat of dust during the fall that turns into mud when the weather becomes moist. A lot of accidents are caused because drivers can't stop fast enough on this surface."

In view of the fact that the number of accidents involving college people has been slight up to last month, Chief Phelan said he is not too worried about the future. (Between January and October there were 181 accidents in the downtown area; only 54 in the university area, an unofficial survey shows.)

"There is no special university problem," he said. "When the campus safety committee gets going we think the accident rate will fall off. Safety precautions will become fashionable. Right now there is no great disposition to cooperate with the police department—and that is true of most drivers, by the way—but we know things will improve. In the meantime, we will continue to arrest violators. We have to. It's the law."

The chief dragged out his record of arrests to show that his department isn't picking on university people.

The record showed a wide range of areas and a wider range of drivers. He said statistics, now being compiled by Sgt. Dan Rice of the traffic bureau, will prove his point.

Chief Phelan has one good argument to show that his official activity is impartial.

Halfway down the ledger of arrests was the name "Phelan, Chas." "My boy," the chief said, with a wry smile. "It cost him some dough, too."

The 22-year-old son of the police chief was recently cited for reckless driving.

Smurr Given Green Light By Board

Bill Smurr, Sacramento, Calif., once more graces the Kaimin council table as a result of action taken at yesterday's Central board meeting. Smurr, who resigned the editorship early in the quarter as the result of a controversial cartoon and editorial, was named business manager of the student publication.

Smurr was chosen on the basis of a recommendation from publications board. Five candidates had applied for the position.

The only other business on the docket concerned the sale of Christmas seals on the campus. The board granted permission to the local chapter of the American Tuberculosis association to set up a table in the Student Union for the sale of the seals.

The meeting was adjourned exactly eight minutes after it was opened.

Driver Pleads Innocent

The Missoula driver who collided head-on Saturday with a car driven by Darrel J. Peterson, University student from Kalispell, pleaded innocent Monday to a charge of careless driving.

Charles W. Sumner was released without bond and will appear in Justice of the Peace Arthur M. Wood's court tomorrow. Both men suffered face lacerations, and both cars were heavily damaged.

The accident occurred on U.S. 10, six miles from Missoula.

Pharm Class 21a Set at New Time

A change in the winter quarter schedule for Pharm. 21a, operative pharmacy, was announced yesterday by Mrs. Barbara Fader, pharmacy school secretary.

According to the new schedule, the lecture section will meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8 a.m. in CP-108.

Lab section 1 will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 9 to 12 a.m. in CP-207. Lab section 2 will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 1 to 4 p.m. in CP-207.

Any students having conflicts with the above schedule are requested to report to the pharmacy school office immediately, Mrs. Fader said.

WOMEN'S ARMY AND AIR CORPS TO RECRUIT TODAY

Recruiting personnel from the Women's Army corps and the Women's Air corps will be on the campus today to interview women interested in the armed forces as a career. Sergeant Gemmell of the WAC will be in charge, according to the Missoula Recruiting office.

CLASSES BEGIN JAN. 4

Classes will begin for all students on Wednesday, Jan. 4, Leo Smith, registrar, said. New students will register Tuesday, Jan. 3. Monday, Jan. 2, will be a legal holiday this year since New Years falls on Sunday.

Campus Chest Group to Set Drive Plans

The first step in organizing a Campus Chest program will be taken tomorrow.

Bob Moran, Red Lodge, chairman of the chest, asks that representatives from organizations planning to put on drives during the school year meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Eloise Knowles room.

Moran said tomorrow's meeting would be an organizational meeting in which representatives will examine plans that have been successful on other campuses. Thus far Moran has received Campus Chest plans from six schools. He has written to eight more campuses where chest programs are in operation and expects answers from them shortly.

Central board gave the chest idea a green light several weeks ago, and ASMSU Pres. John Holding appointed Moran chairman. Moran is head of the campus committee for the World Student Service fund.

Honorary Frat Initiates Tonight

Three students will be initiated tonight into Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary speech and oratory fraternity, Ralph Y. McGinnis, associate professor of English, said yesterday. The new members will be Vera Heitmeyer, Kalispell; Tom Payne, Livingston; and John Spielman, Anaconda.

Dinner will be served at Professor McGinnis' house, after which the initiation will take place.

Ski Trip Tickets At Student Union

Ski club tickets for the Big Mountain trip Jan. 6, 7, and 8, will be on sale today, Thursday, and Friday afternoons in the cove store of the Student Union, Hal McVey, Missoula, president of the Ski club, said.

A $5 deposit is necessary to hold a reservation for the trip. Women are reminded to pick up permit slips for the trip. These slips are available at the same time from the ticket salesmen. The slips must be returned to the dean of women before the end of this quarter.

Seven Face Scholarship Interviews

Seven university students, including four from MSU, will be interviewed today by the state selection committee for Rhodes scholarships. Interviews began this morning at 9 o'clock in the Eloise Knowles room of the Student Union.

The MSU candidates are William H. Brandt, Great Falls, senior botany major; William R. McNamer, Shelby, junior in the law school; Lawrence F. Rooney, Whitefish, graduate student in English; and Sterling E. Soderlund, Billings, senior in the journalism school.

James S. Kane is a candidate from Montana State college. He is a senior, majoring in chemistry. Pierce Parker, a Montana School of Mines senior majoring in mining engineering, will also be interviewed. Joseph English, from Stanford university, Palo Alto, Calif., is the seventh candidate. He is a resident of Anaconda. English received a B.S. degree in physics from Stanford university last June.

The members of the state selection committee are Dr. R. R. Renne, president of Montana State college; Robert C. Bates, associate professor of history and political science, MSU; and Dr. Harold G. Merriam, chairman of the English department, MSU.

The state selection committee will nominate two men from among the seven candidates to represent the state at the district meeting Saturday at Spokane. Four men will then be selected from the district—which includes candidates from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, and North Dakota, in addition to Montana.

The four selected at Spokane will enter Oxford university in England next October.

Tickets on Sale For U Movies

Tom Roberts, president of the University Film society, announced yesterday that tickets to the film series may be purchased only between 1 and 2 o'clock at the Simpkins hall box office.

Season tickets for the five pictures are being sold for $2, tax included. No tickets will be available for single performances.

Next quarter's series includes: "Revenge," Jan. 8; "How Green Was My Valley," Jan. 22; "Eric Frac," Feb. 5; "Doctor Syn," Feb. 19; and "Volpone," March 5.

Three performances of each film will be shown on each of the dates at 4, 7, and 9 p. m.

The Battle for Peace Must be Won

It has been eight years since Pearl Harbor. It has been four years since Hiroshima. It has been eight years since men began dying that man might live.

The thousands of crosses that point heavenward in silent, symmetrical rows are the mute testimonials of faith to what men believed and died for.

In their faith, the dead have left us a sacred trust. A simple but vital trust that unless achieved, will mean more sacrifice of human lives, more degradation, more privation, and more shame.

These men died to win a battle—a battle that links vitally in the chain of struggle that eventually means peace. They have won their battle—the war. Now, lest what they have won be lost, we, the living, must win our battle for peace.

We must never lose sight of freedom from fear, freedom of religion, freedom from want, and freedom of expression. We must achieve these for them and for the dignity of mankind now living and yet to be born.

We must work hard for fulfillment of the dream reborn in the United Nations charter at San Francisco. We must fight the battle of intolerance to achieve a more perfect democracy.

Hunger and ignorance must be defeated if our trust is to be fulfilled. Freedom of religion must be extended unless we want the moral basis of our society to decay and disappear.

Ours is a battle that does not end in armistices or treaties; but one that never ends because our enemies—intolerance, hunger, ignorance, and prejudice—are ever-present waiting for us to relax or drop our guard.

They can destroy our dignity as men and destroy the trust left us by the dead, with appeals to our self-interests, our greeds, our vanities, and our human weaknesses.

To the men under those thousands of crosses, we owe this opportunity to seek truth, establish justice, and regain our human dignity. We owe it to them and to those that will follow our footsteps to wage a total war for peace and a better world for all men.

Anything short of total efforts on our part will make a mockery and a farce out of Pearl Harbor, D-Day, Iwo Jima, Bastogne, and Anzio—and slaves of ourselves.—FGL

I-M-Hoopster Rosters Called for By Cole

Intramural basketball is in the air. Team managers must have their rosters in by Friday, Dave Cole, director of intramural athletics, announces.

The managers should also make sure their players receive a health service checkup before playing starts next quarter.

Independent teams will be organized if enough men are interested. All non-affiliated men interested in playing ball, Cole said, should contact him at the men's gym.

MISSOULA DRIVERS WORST HE'S SEEN

Dear Editor:

First of all, I would like to send this message to Sgt. Dan Rice and the Missoula police force. Since he sits up at Maurice and Beckwith he must read the Kaimin when he isn't picking up college students.

If the Missoula police department thinks they can pay the salaries of the force by catching people at "Greenback Corners," that is OK, but if they really want to hit the jackpot they should try it uptown some day. I live three blocks from the center of town and know what it is like to take your life in your hands trying to get home for lunch.

There is no city that I have been driving in, including Chicago, Los Angeles and the Twin Cities, where there is a worse group of drivers than in the city of Missoula. The corner of South Pattee and East Front is by far the worst in the city but never is there a policeman there.

The only reason Missoula got away with the 100 deathless days is due to the ability of the pedestrian to jump fifteen feet at a moment's notice. It could be that the police would rather pick on out-of-state people than the home town folks couldn't it?

The only other point I have to touch on is the parking situation on the campus. Never in my life have I ever seen such a mess. I was waiting to see what the Kaimin would do about it. They have printed articles and pictures, but that isn't enough.

I hope that the Kaimin will press the responsible party until something is done. This situation should be cleared before more accidents happen on the campus, serious ones. The parking by the

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

YOU'D never guess to see him now, but just two weeks ago there was a sad, forlorn look in Sheedy's beady eyes. People picked on him because his hair looked like he was moulting. Not a gal on campus would even carry on a conversation with him. Then he bought a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic and he's been a gay old bird ever since. Non-alcoholic Wildroot containing Lanolin keeps hair neat and well-groomed all day long. Relieves annoying dryness, removes the loose ugly dandruff that can make you a social outcast. So if your hair is giving you trouble, set your corpse for the nearest drug or toilet goods counter and get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. And ask your barber for professional applications. It's the best treatment your hair cadaver get.

DAY OFF, GALS, MEAD'S OKAY

Dear Editor:
Please take those three Theta girls—Joan Smith, Marge Hunter and Margot Luebben—off Warren Mead's neck!

I heard his talk at the Kiwanis meeting and can assure you and them that he was throwing no abbages at university coeds, nor was he belittling their aspirations or careers.

He was simply explaining why, out of a graduating class of more than 900 students, only 300 to 400 saw fit to register with the Placement bureau. He said that some made their own job contacts, others planned to do graduate study, and many women graduates did not register with the Placement bureau because of their plans for early marriage.

I think it was a matter of Mead being quoted out of context and having a couple of belittling words inadvertently put in his mouth.

Sincerely yours,
Andy Cogswell

NO VIOLATION' READERS SAY

Dear Editor:
In last Friday's Kaimin there were several pictures of traffic violations shown on the front page. After studying the pictures along with the explanation of the violation we were convinced that someone was wrong about No. 3.

We would like to know how Ken Perry considers this a traffic violation. Today Missoula doesn't have signs saying "No Left Turn," although it used to. Are you going to have a person always turn right? We know that you could get where you wanted to go, but don't you think it is a little inconvenient?

By the way, after wondering what the traffic violation was for some time we checked with the Missoula police station and were assured that there was no violation. Couldn't Mr. Perry catch someone making a right-hand turn from the center lane?

This is a violation and also one that you see almost every time you drive down town. Then too, there are people who turn left from the right-hand lane.

Yours for better traffic education,
Teddy Ulrich
Minnie Edyth Newton
John Ulrich

(You are right, but the editor, not Mr. Perry, takes the responsibility for calling the action in picture three a violation. It is not violation but it is a dangerous situation, both from the standpoint of trying up traffic and the possibility of a collision when two cars turn at the same time—as shown in the picture.—Ed.)

COMMENTS FROM CULTURED CRITIC

Dear Editor:
While glancing through today's Kaimin, I happened to read Carroll O'Connor's vitriolic denunciation of "MSU culture."

I was shocked.
Mr. O'Connor is slightly confused concerning the true aspects of culture. He doesn't seem to realize that Mr. Lynch, Irish tenor that he is, would probably have been very much at home, singing "Clancy Lowered the Boom."

What's wrong with "Clancy Lowered the Boom?"
Instead of wasting his time and effort in the crucifixion of "MSU culture," Mr. O'Connor would have been acting more in the public service if he had analyzed Mr. Lynch's artistic (and Kultural, with a kapital K) efforts.

Mr. Lynch, who is supposedly John McCormack's successor, went through the first part of his recital (I say the first part, since that was the point at which I walked out) singing almost everything a half-tone flat. His sloppy enunciation was obvious, and he was rather poor in general.

Obviously, Mr. O'Connor places emphasis on an outward show of culture. Shame on Mr. O'Connor. He should remember that true culture is simply the appreciation of good, and the recognition of the poor.

Mr. O'Connor does not end his letter with a conventional "Sincerely." He concludes, "Yours in cultural betterment."

Just who is Mr. O'Connor trying to kid?

Sincerely,
Jack Shapira

PDT Bob Burns Adds Chapter To Success Story

There is quite a success story connected with the campus life of Bob Burns, Butte, a senior in the journalism school.

Last spring he was elected president of the university chapter of Phi Delta Theta.

This fall he was elected president of Interfraternity council.

Saturday he emerged victorious from a red-hot game of musical chairs at Dean J. L. C. Ford's senior seminar class in the Bitterroot room.

The class of about forty journalism seniors watched tensely as Burns and Lorraine Kurfiss, Sheridan, walked around the last chair left on the floor while Margot Luebben, Dillon, and Jim Edwards, Missoula, beat out "Chop Sticks" on the upright.

Suddenly, the music stopped. Both Burns and Miss Kurfiss leaped for the seat. Burns arrived first and Miss Kurfiss bounced to the floor. The runner-up was unhurt despite her hard fall.

Frank Cocco, Hamden, Conn., and Dean Ford were eliminated in the semifinals.

'No Developments' In Billfold Theft

After a month of investigation by Missoula police and campus officials, Mrs. W. H. Perkins, head teacher at the university nursery school, is still minus the $114 which was taken from her office Nov. 7.

Mrs. Perkins' billfold, minus $114, was found in the janitor's locker in the men's rest room, basement of Main hall, and turned over to the switchboard the evening of Nov. 7. Mrs. Perkins said all papers in the billfold were intact. A $50 bill, which was in the card section, was overlooked by the burglar.

Maintenance Engineer Tom Swearingen and the dean of students office were informed of the missing money. Detective James Doyle of the Missoula police department, who was called in on the case Nov. 8, yesterday reported "no developments."

Basketball Tourney Will Highlight Women's Sports

Highlighting women's sports next quarter will be the women's round-robin basketball tourney. The first game will begin Jan. 10.

Other winter quarter tournaments for women include bowling and table tennis, for which plans will be announced later.

An interschool swimming meet with Bozeman is also being planned, and a telegraphic swim meet with teams in the Pacific Northwest.

Phi Sigs Top Intramural Bowling Again

Phi Sigma Kappa climbed back into the first place bracket in intramural bowling Saturday by dumping the law school for three games. The Phi Sigs regained first place from Phi Delta Theta who had taken over that position from the Phi Sigs two weeks ago.

The Phi Deltas turned in a stellar performance by taking individual and team singles and series, though they only won two of their three games with Sigma Nu.

Theta Chi and SAE's both had perfect afternoons, Theta Chi downing cellar-dwelling Kappa Sigma Delta, and the SAE's romping over South hall. The three games helped Theta Chi keep a firm hold on third place and the SAE's advanced from sixth to tie for fifth with the Sigma Nus and South hall.

The Phi Deltas made 858 for the high team game and 2458 for the series. O'Donnell, Phi Delt, took the individual single and series, 226 and 568.

Sigma Chi stayed in fourth place by virtue of a 2-1 series with the Sig Eps.

Intramural standings after five series of play are:

Team	W	L
Phi Sigma Kappa	13	2
Phi Delta Theta	10	2
Theta Chi	11	4
Sigma Chi	10	5
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	8	7
Sigma Nu	8	7
South hall	8	7
Corbin hall	7	8
Alpha Tau Omega	5	7
Lambda Chi Alpha	5	7
Jumbo	6	9
Law school	6	9

Ford Rolls in Gutter; J-Students Upset as Dean Loses Control

The journalism school faculty, despite a shaky start by Dean James L. C. Ford, swept a three-line bowling match from an overconfident team of journalism seniors at the Liberty Bowling center Friday afternoon.

The dean, a novice at the game and apparently nervous, put the faculty in the hole at the outset by lofting his first two balls into the gutter. He quickly recovered from that fiasco, however, and bowled superbly the rest of the afternoon, managing to break 100 in the second game.

Ford Magnificent

The faculty won the first line by 53 pins. Most of the winning margin was provided by the intrepid Dean, who had a 51-pin advantage over his opponent, Beverly Brink. In the second game the faculty had a 72-pin advantage; Dean Ford was magnificent, shellacking Miss Brink, 112 to 43.

The third line was rough. Marge Hunter substituted for Miss Brink, and Ford was in hot water all the way, finally pulling ahead in the last frame to win by five pins. The faculty won this line by 15 pins.

Wilkinson High

Match totals were 2,115 pins for the faculty team against the students' 1,980. Larry Wilkinson, one of the losers, rolled high series with an impressive 526. Ed Dugan and Din Alcorn led the winners with 518 and 508, respectively. Dugan and Wilkinson rolled high games: 206 and 202, respectively. Rolling for the faculty were Ford, Alcorn, Dugan, Pat Lush and Harlan Bower. The losing team consisted of Miss Brink, Miss Hunter, Wilkinson, Frank Cocco, Jim Edwards, and Ted Houtz.

J-SCHOOL GRAD LOSES OUT IN MAYORALTY ELECTION

Crandell was running on the Democratic ticket in a Republican stronghold area.

Last year Crandell returned to the University to receive his bachelor of arts degree in journalism after a number of years absence.
